1 BURIAL OF DE SOTO.

Thus perished Ferdinand De Soto. — The Priests chanted over his body the first Requiems that were ever heard on the waters of the Mississippi. To conceal his death, his body was wrapped in a mantle, and, in the stillness of midnight, was silently sunk in the middle of the stream.

The discoverer of the Mississippi slept beneath its waters.

VOICE.

PIANO.

On Mississip - pi's lonely shore A

Chief ex - piring lay; No guardian columns round him drew Their lines in grand ar - ray: No clash-ing arms the warrior hears. No charging bat-tle cry, He hears no shout of vic-to-ry,— The foe—they fly! they fly!

riten. a tempo.

A no-ble few a-round him knelt To watch his fail-ing breath; Ah!

A no-ble few a-round him knelt To watch his fail-ing breath; Ah!

what is fame, am - bi - tion now? De So - to sleeps in death! No king - ly robe is round him thrown, No crown a - dorns his brow; — A mantle is the on - ly pall, That riten. tempo.

wraps the war - rior now.

At midnight, si - lent - ly and slow, They bore him to his grave; No muffled drum no sig-nal gun—Told where they laid the brave:

Kingdoms and thrones may pass a-way, Heroes be lost to fame;— In Missis-sippi's ad lib.

waves shall live De So-to's death-less name.
